Diabetic Foot Study Group (DFSG)

The aim of the Diabetic Foot Study Group (DFSG) of the European Association for the Study of Diabetes (EASD) is to promote an advancement of knowledge on all aspects of diabetic foot care. This is done through active co-operation and collaboration between diabetologists, podiatrists, specialist nurses, orthopaedic and vascular surgeons and other specialists with an interest in caring for diabetic patients with foot problems.

European Association for the Study of Diabetes (EASD)

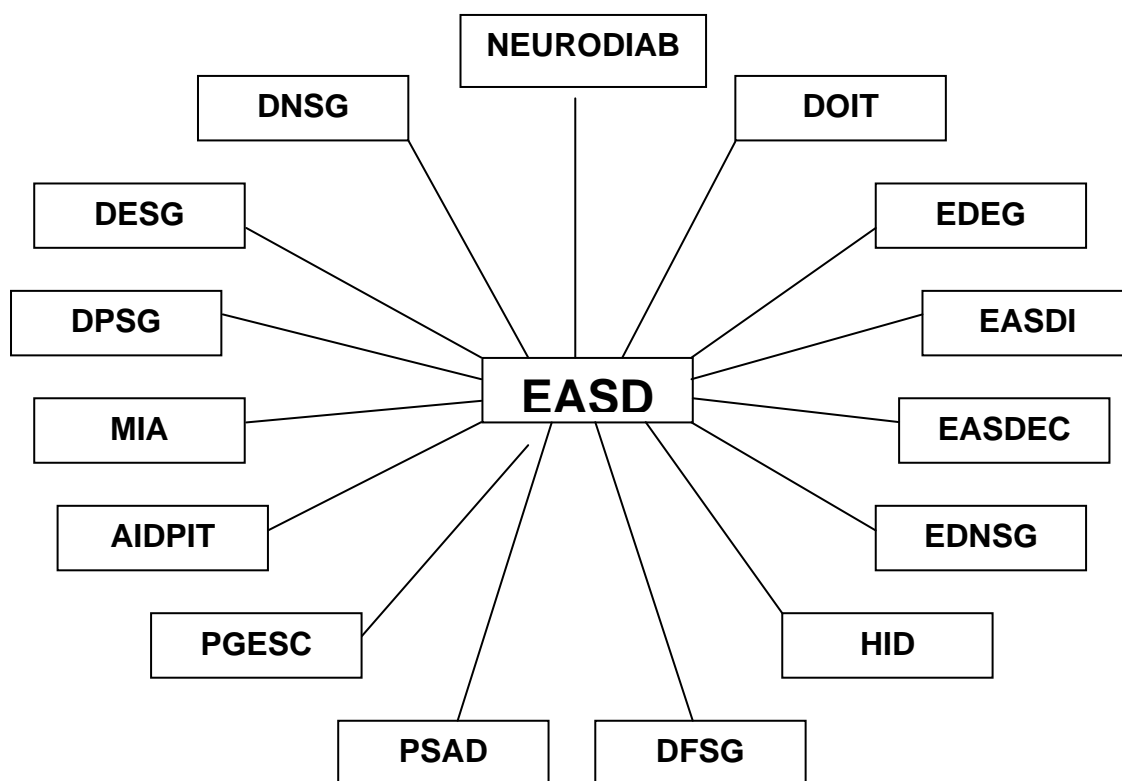

The aim of the Association is to encourage and support research in the field of diabetes, rapid diffusion of acquired knowledge and facilitating its application.

The European Association for the Study of Diabetes (EASD) was founded in Montecatini, Italy in 1965. The Association embraces scientists, physicians, laboratory workers, nurses and students from all over the world who are interested in diabetes and related subjects.

The number of active members of the association is currently more than 5,500 individuals from over 100 countries throughout the world. Find more information on www.easd.org

Description of the Diabetic foot Study Group Conference

Previous meetings have gathered around 300 participants. A majority of these are members of the Diabetic Foot Study Group. Usually, 50-60 % of the participants are physicians, representing most centres of excellence working within the area of diabetes in Europe. Even a number of centres from the USA, India, Russia and Australia are represented.

Traditionally, the conference is held in connection with the much larger conferences of the European Association for the Study of Diabetes (EASD). Consequently, the impact of the DFSG reaches far beyond the DFSG participants, as their recommendations influence all interested in the area of diabetes through the following EASD meeting.
